The Modern Language Association publishes two books on its documentation style: the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers (for high school and undergraduate students) and the MLA Style Manual and Guide to Scholarly Publishing (for graduate students, scholars, and professional writers). These volumes provide the most accurate and complete instructions on MLA style. MLA and the MODERN LANGUAGE ASSOCIATION are trademarks owned by the Modern Language Association of America. If updates of the information in this handbook become necessary, they will be posted at the MLA's World Wide Web site. Modern Language Association (MLA) is the most common style used when citing sources and writing papers within the liberal arts and humanities. Therefore, the basics of this format is essential for almost any writer. Though there are many sources to consider citing, this Instructable will simply show you the basics by learning the process in which to cite a printed book. Materials: Being able to cite a printed book is just a small glimpse into the MLA world. Among printed works, there are journals, newspapers, magazines, etc. The use of the web encompasses many more digital resources. Each type of resource utilizes its own MLA format. In order to learn more about citing such sources, Purdue OWL provides a great basis for understanding MLA formatting. Complete guide to MLA 8 (Modern Language Association, 8th edition) citation.
