Proceedings of the Royal Society is the parent title of two scientific journals published by the Royal Society. Originally a single journal, it was split into two separate journals in 1905: Part A: which publishes research related to mathematical, physical, and engineering sciences (including computer science). Part B: which publishes research related to biology. Publisher: Royal Society, The. Journal description. Proceedings B welcomes papers of high quality in any area of biological science. As a fast track journal, Proceedings B specialises in the rapid delivery of the latest research to the scientific community, normally within three months of acceptance. It is published on the 7th and 22nd of each month. The 5.3 kilobases of coding sequence reported here contains Class I and Class II motifs characteristic of titin and twitchin, arranged in a three domain [II-I-I] [II-I-I] pattern. Two mutants mapped to the location of the projectin gene in the 102C subdivision of chromosome 4, lethal(4) 102 CDa and bent-Dominant, have DNA rearrangements within their projectin gene.
