

The Back Door Guide to Short-term Job Adventures: Internships, Extraordinary Experiences, Seasonal Jobs, Volunteering, Work Abroad #Ten Speed Press, 2002 #2002 #420 pages #Michael Landes #9781580084499

Job boards for working, intern, volunteer and teaching English abroad. Going Global <http://online.goinglobal.com/default.aspx> (VPN is required) Worldwide job and internship listings, employer profiles, and 80,000+ country-specific career resources.Â Cultural Exchange & Seasonal Job Websites HelpX Cultural exchange for working holiday makers <http://www.helpx.net/> Workaway.info Fair exchange for travelers, language learners or culture seekers www.workaway.info Anywork Anywhere Seasonal work throughout Europe and Worldwide <http://www.anyworkanywhere.com/> Season Workers Network Lists seasonal jobs worldwide <http://www.seasonworkers.com/>.Â AISEC McGill International internship and volunteer opportunities <https://www.aisec.org/> Working abroad exposes you to new professional experiences where you can obtain added skills and knowledge in your field. The experience you gain can be added to your resume to aid your chances of a future job in a related field. An overseas job can also help you learn new languages, skills and other qualifications that can be appealing to future hiring managers.Â For example, hostels often have opportunities for you to work on a short-term basis. Travel to the country before you move. Prior to starting work and making the move to another country, consider a short-term trip abroad to help you learn the culture, get acquainted with the location and make face-to-face connections. This is also a great opportunity to line up in-person meetings or interviews with prospective employers. Explore the exciting world of short-term job adventures, summer jobs, seasonal work, internships, volunteering and life changing experiences worldwide.Â Appalachian Mountain Club seasonal work, summer jobs and internships are broken into four categories: Lodge & Hut Crews (Help serve food, prepare facilities, and offer trail information to outdoor enthusiasts who visit AMC outdoor lodges throughout the year), Trail Crews (AMC is responsible for over 1,800 miles of trails throughout the Northeast and they need your help to maintain them).